Letter from our Executive Director

Dear Friends,

Thank you for joining us for our Midsummer's Night Gala and supporting the New Art Center - a vital community resource for creativity and wellness. Covid has impacted everyone and everything - and we have all felt varying degrees of trauma, loss, racial and social injustices and emotional challenges. New Art has faithfully served Newton and the surrounding community for 45 years, and there is no doubt that the challenges of the past three years have enabled us to reexamine our practices and beliefs, and make systemic changes for the emerging needs of our community.

Tonight, I am so pleased to thank our entire Board of Governors, who have had the vision and stamina to lead us through challenging times. I am also deeply grateful to the board members on our Gala Committee who have worked tirelessly to bring this evening to fruition.

As you celebrate with us this evening, I encourage you to think about what sparks your personal creativity, and ask yourself how New Art can help you in your journey. As we plan for our next 45 years, we are seeking to grow into a more inclusive organization, in a new home, with expanded programs that enable us to become a true center for creativity for everyone. Tonight is our first step in that direction - and I am grateful and appreciative that we have begun this mission together.

Emily O'Neil Executive Director

THANK YOU TO THE NEW ART CENTER BOARD

Art Is Healing

CASE FOR SUPPORT

Called by some a pandemic within the pandemic, COVID-19 exacerbated a mental health crisis that has been growing exponentially for decades. National research conducted by Massachusetts General Hospital shows that depression is at three times the rate that it was prior to COVID-19. A survey conducted by the Creative Youth Development Department of the Massachusetts Cultural Council found equally concerning results specific to youth:

90% EXPERIENCED ANXIETY
82% EXPERIENCED DEPRESSION
71% FELT ISOLATED & SOCIALLY WITHDRAWN

Amidst the troubling rise in mental health challenges, we should not be left without hope. A study conducted specifically for the Newton Community in 2021 by students from the Heller School of Public Policy found the following about residents of Newton:

65% OF RESPONDENTS REPORTED THAT ARTS POSITIVELY IMPACTED THEIR WELL-BEING.
98% OF RESPONDENTS SAID THAT PARTICIPATION IN ARTS MADE THEM FEEL HAPPY AND BROUGHT THEM JOY.

So how can we start to drive positive sustainable change and address the mental health crisis?

Policies and programs must be initiated at the community level to urgently tackle these issues.

Since reopening for in person classes in the Fall of 2020, New Art has seen heightened levels of anxiety from students and families of all ages. This reached a crescendo within the children's Summer Camp where many unexpected social and emotional difficulties arose. Teens were by far the largest group impacted by these difficulties. Many of our teen students spoke openly about mental health challenges and identified the New Art Center as a preferred safe space.

In response to these emerging community needs, the New Art Center will pilot mental health and wellness programs that prioritize the emotional wellbeing of our community across all classes and programs. Visual arts are an important tool for self-expression, emotional regulation, and well-being and New Art is uniquely positioned to promote collective healing for our community through art and creative practice.

New Art will provide regular professional development training for our faculty and staff around social emotional learning, trauma informed teaching, and healing-centered engagement that centers on diversity, equity, access and inclusion. We will also launch a series of community wellness programs, including weekly mediation, meditative drawing, and family-friendly movement programs that are free and open to all. Most importantly, New Art will pilot a referral-based expressive art therapy program for adolescent students that will be co-facilitated by an art therapist and visual arts educator for students struggling with mental health issues such as anxiety and depression.

fund-a-need

YOUR CHANCE TO HELP MAKE AN IMPACT IN OUR COMMUNITY.

- $2500 Transforms the culture of New Art to become a creative center dedicated to inclusivity and wellness, training our entire staff and faculty in social emotional learning, wellness and community support. We need 3 x $2500 to fulfill this need.
- $1800 Enrolls a teen in 31 hours (a full year) of our new expressive arts therapy program, supporting their mental health, helping them to learn to express themselves, and develop their self-identity. We hope to enroll at least 16 students in this program each term.
- $1000 Supports a year-long internship for a teen in the New Art Center's DEI Young Leadership program, giving young people invaluable professional training and work experience that “When it comes to stereotypes — the whole “good for nothing teenager” — sometimes I feel like I should believe that. And I’m like no, I come here, I take classes, I want to better my art and that’s a thing that I’m passionate about and having a place that’s specifically for my passion is something that makes me fight the feeling that I am a burden... I have my goals, I have my aspirations and that’s what matters. And this place is very helpful for figuring it out.” — CURRENT NEW ART TEEN STUDENT empowers, builds resilience and self-worth and self-respect as well as real job skills in a creative community.

- $500 Provides a scholarship for a week of New Art camp, a creative, safe, and sensory friendly experience for teens and children of all abilities.
- $100 Opens the New Art Center to an hour of free community wellness programming with meditation, creative movement, and other creative wellness activities. We hope to run these programs weekly throughout the year.
