

Outdoor Landscape Painting

Michael Wilson

Materials:

All of the materials listed can be found at Michael's (<https://www.michaels.com/>) or Dick Blick (<https://www.dickblick.com/>)

- Paints (small tubes)
 - Titanium white
 - Cobalt blue
 - Burnt umber
 - Burnt sienna
 - Cadmium red light
 - Alizarin crimson
 - Cadmium yellow medium
 - Yellow ochre
 - Sap green
 - Ultramarine blue
- Pencils (2B, 4B) and a sketch book
- Canvases, panels, or canvas boards, whatever size you're comfortable with. Bring an extra one.

- Rags or a roll of paper towels or both
- Brushes – the basics brush types are round, bright, flat and filbert
 - The brushes I carry are shown below, along with palette and painting knives, and a couple of old brushes that create unusual textures

- Hog bristle:
 - 1 of #12 Bright, 1 Round//1 each #8, #6, #4 round, //2 of #8 flat
- Soft synthetic bristle:
 - 2 of #18 Flat, (only one showing)// 2 or 3 each #10, #8, #4, #2
- For an overview of shapes, names and properties of brushes visit:

<http://www.dickblick.com/categories/brushes/#brushesbyshape>

- Palette knife or Painting knife for mixing paints and/or painting with
- Mediums or thinners for acrylics: bring water and container: plastic yogurt or Tupperware, for mixing and cleaning.
- For oils: you won't need a lot of painting medium: buy a jar of pre-made painting medium and keep the jar for future use.

- I bring a folding stool like on the left b: 19" high. About $20 on Amazon. The one on the right: 12" high: $6.99 at Ocean State Job Lot

- Easel a “French Easel” or a lightweight aluminum easel.
 - The aluminum one is much easier to set up but you will need a separate container for your paints and brushes, and a small table (see below) for your palette. It doesn’t fold in half – it’s about 6 ft tall, but very light. I can fit one into my Prius.
 - The French Easel is the classic model and is more expensive, for good reason. You can put your entire kit in it: paints, brushes, palette, clean rags and and mediums, and it folds up into a box with a handle. But it’s heavy, cumbersome and a pain to set up.