NEW ART CENTER @ LASSELL UNIVERSITY

This summer we are launching an exciting new program: a partnership with Lasell University! The program features a teen art camp in two new disciplines: fashion and digital arts. Teens will learn from fashion and digital arts instructors in a college setting. Lasell is in neighboring Auburndale on a beautiful private campus. Morning and afternoon sessions are available, allowing teens to choose either half or full day. Teens can also mix and match with our ceramics and drawing classes at New Art. A win-win combination!

In addition, as part of this partnership, Ken Calhoun, Interim Dean of the School of Communications & the Arts and Board Member at New Art Center, will teach a digital content creation class for adults! Learn a variety of approaches to creating graphics, photos, videos and digital stories for social media. Perfect for artists who want to learn some savvy marketing tips!

DIGITAL CONTENT CREATION FOR ADULTS

Ken Calhoun

Adults can get on the fast track to content creation, learning a variety of approaches to creating graphics, photos, videos and digital stories for social media. Every session, Lasell University's talented faculty will introduce students to online tools and apps, as well as production workflows, enabling them to produce their own compelling content for personal or professional use. Upon completing the six-week course, students will have gained cutting-edge skills that will help them amplify their online presentation game.

Teen Fashion Camp

Sam Bettencourt

Lasell University, Donahue Building

By being placed in a collegiate setting, teens are encouraged to flex their creative muscles through the detailed process of garment conception, creation, and presentation; all while being guided and instructed by the talented faculty of Lasell University. Participants will use important communication and critical thinking skills to learn sketching, draping, construction, and styling skills in an exciting, fast paced, and collaborative setting. This curriculum will challenge its participants to embrace self-expression by creating their very own garment from start to finish!

Teen Digital Arts Camp

Anna King, Yvette Perullo, Ken Calhoun

Lasell University, Yamawaki Building

Teens can express their ideas, learn digital arts techniques and gain important communication and critical thinking skills in a collegiate setting with Lasell University's talented faculty. Students will use the Adobe Creative Cloud and other digital authoring tools with guided instruction and will have the opportunity to complete a finished portfolio piece. The curriculum is challenging and flexible, offering plenty of opportunity for self-expression while working with other teens.
